

Table of contents

Introduction	7
Chapter 1
Restitution as a hard case	19
1.1. Hard cases in contemporary philosophy of law	19
1.2. Restitution – conceptual issues	26
1.2.1. The concept of restitution	26
1.2.2. Causes of restitution	30
1.2.3. Divisions within restitution	38
1.2.4. Other applications of the concept	42
1.2.5. Restitution claims	45
1.3. In what sense is a case of restitution a hard one?	48
Chapter 2
Cultural property as the object of restitution	53
2.1. Culture	54
2.2. Cultural heritage	58
2.3. Cultural property	62
2.3.1. The concept of cultural property	62
2.3.2. Moveable and immoveable cultural property	72
2.3.3. The value of cultural property	74
2.3.4. Cultural property as common property	87
2.4. Other relevant concepts	98
Chapter 3
Restitution – between morality, politics, economics, and law	105
3.1. Locating the issue of restitution	105
3.2. Restitution between law and morality	107
3.3. Restitution between law and politics	112
3.4. Restitution between law and economics	119
3.5. Restitution between morality and politics	122
3.6. Restitution between morality and economics	126
3.7. Restitution between politics and economics	127

Chapter 4

Restitution conflict as argumentation discourse	131
4.1. Theories of argumentation discourse	131
4.2. Arguments relating to restitution	136
4.2.1. The argument from justice	141
4.2.2. The argument from ownership	145
4.2.3. The argument from acquisition in good faith	151
4.2.4. The argument from place of production	153
4.2.5. The argument from place of allocation	153
4.2.6. The argument from right of loot	154
4.2.7. The argument from illegal export	158
4.2.8. The argument from national affiliation	159
4.2.9. The argument from cultural affiliation	167
4.2.10. The argument from historical affiliation	170
4.2.11. The argument from territorial affiliation	171
4.2.12. The argument from personal affiliation	174
4.2.13. The argument from social utility	176
4.2.14. The argument from most secure location	179
4.2.15. The argument from historical eventuation	185
4.2.16. The argument from passage of time	189
4.2.17. The argument from prescription	190
4.2.18. The argument from time limitation	191
4.2.19. The argument from discovery	193
4.2.20. The argument from investments undertaken	195
4.2.21. The argument from possession	196
4.2.22. The argument from obligation	199
4.2.23. The argument from reciprocity	199
Conclusions, or in search of answers	203
Bibliography	217